

Cameras clicking, looks of bewilderment, eyes directed with intense interest, weary bodies climbing and descending countless ladders, dancing on the helo deck, all this describes the actions and reactions on the Dependent's Day cruise through the Panama Canal, 1 March 1970.

